Annual Fair and Sports to be Combined

Arrangements for the Big Agricultural Fair to be held on July 29 and 30 are nearly completed and the Fair Board are hard at work to make this Didsbury's Best Fair. The Prize List is in the hands of the printers now and will be ready for distribution about the end of the month. Other advertising will soon be out giving full particulars about this big event, and in the meantime you can get any information required by calling on either Manager J. V. Berscht or Secy. Geo. Wrigglesworth.

The Society is not soliciting the town merchants for advertising in the Prize List this year, in order that the fullest support possible may be given to the Sports Committee by the merchants. If any merchants should wish to use the Prize List as a medium of advertising, however, space is available at very reasonable rates and their advertising matter will be gladly received. The Society would also like to have a number of advertisements from local stock breeders or from any farmers who have anything of interest to advertise.

Didsbury Hands Out a Wallop to Carstairs B. B. Team

The Didsbury ball team came out on the winning end of a game played here against Carstairs on Monday evening. Our ball team was greatly strengthened by the addition of Enie and Albie Dawson and Mr. Herbert. A good crowd turned out and if the boys put up as good a game all through the season they are assured of hearty support. The score was 9-7. The battery consisted of H. Stauffer pitcher and H. Clemens catcher.

With a score of 20 to 3 the Didsbury baseball aggregation, playing at Carstairs, put Carstairs into the dumps on Wednesday night. The game was so one-sided for the former near champion Carstairs team that they called a meeting after the game to consider a reorganization of their team. Time and space does not allow of an extended report of the game but the score was 9 to 1 for five innings in Didsbury's favor, and E. E. Freeman, the old baseball warhorse, pitched the first seven innings for Didsbury when he was relieved by Tressiere who pitched the balance of the game. Guinn, Liesomer and Tidball all tried to stop the avalanche for Carstairs but failed.

Messrs. McMillan for Carstairs, and J. R. Miller for Didsbury were the umpes.

The score by innings was as follows:

Didsbury 014,266,032
Carstairs 100,004,210

Salvage Work Difficult

Gold Bars Still Being Taken From Wreck of Laurentic

There are now only 154 bars of gold worth $1,200,000 on the wreck of the Laurentic, which was sunk during the war, and the salvage ship Racer will shortly endeavor to recover this, said Commander G. C. C. Damant in the course of a lecture at the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, London.

Four boxes of gold weighing 140 pounds each were recovered in such short time when the work started that it seemed as if operations would be finished in a week. A fierce gale sprang up, however, and the wreck collapsed, making salvage work very difficult. Of the 3,211 bars which went down with the ship, 3,057 have been recovered during operations extending over six summers at a cost of two and one-half per cent.

Are Women to Rule Britain?

Proposed Law in Britain Would Give Women Excess of Votes Over Men

After an extraordinary discussion in the British Parliament, in which the women members took an active part, a bill to extend the parliamentary and local government franchise to women on the same terms as men passed its second reading on a vote of 288 to 77, and was sent on to a grand committee for further consideration.

This measure was a private members' bill moved by W. M. Adamson, of the Labor party. If this bill should become law, every Tory of the old school will feel that a revolution has indeed occurred of which none can foretell the outcome.

If the franchise is extended to women on the same terms as to men, it will mean the addition of four and a half million new women voters to the eight millions on the register. This would mean that the women voters would outnumber the male electors by 1,894,948.—Toronto Star.

Supplied New Word

"Buncombe" Said to Have Originated in House Debate

Buncombe, meaning inflated or bombastic speechmaking, simply for effect, is said to have originated in the following way: In the debate on the Missouri Compromise, in the Sixteenth Congress, Felix Walker, an old mountaineer of North Carolina, who represented Buncombe county, a part of his district, rose to speak, says the Detroit News.

The House, however, was clamoring for the question, and several members gathered about the Carolinian, begging him to desist, while others left the hall. The old man, however, persisted, saying that the people of his district expected him to speak, and that he was in consequence bound to make a speech for Buncombe. Hence the meaning of the word: to speak for mere show or popularity.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MAY 11

JEHOIADA'S VICTORY OVER BAAL

Golden Text: Be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of his might. Ephesians 6.10.

Lesson: 1. Kings 11.21 to 15.24; 22; 2 Kings 11 and 12.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 1.

The Text Explained and Illumined

I. Athaliah Usurps the Throne of Judah: Joash is Saved, verses 1-3. Athaliah was the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel (8.18-26) and possessed the courage, indomitable will, cruelty and ambition of her mother. She was content to be queen-mother during the reign of her son Ahaziah. On his death had her grandson succeeded to the throne, the latter's wife would have deprived her of that honor, and she would not be thrust aside. She ordered all the heirs to the throne to be murdered (forty-two "brethren of Ahaziah" had been slain by Jehu, 2 K. 10.13, but there were other members of the royal house), and then she herself usurped the throne. Unknown to Athaliah, Ahaziah's sister Jehoshaphat rescued his young son Joash and for six years succeeded in concealing him with his nurse in the bed-chamber of the temple (doubtless one of the side-chambers described in 1 K. 6.5-10, which was a storeroom for mattresses and cushions). The temple proved so good a hiding-place that it could not have been much visited during Athaliah's reign. The future of Judah hung upon the slender thread of a child's life, but "a single thread and one of the weakest, is as good as a steel hawser when God's promises hang upon it, and Athaliah's contempt of God's House actually helped to preserve the infant Joash."

How the English Make Toffee

Old-Fashioned Candies Are Best For the Young Folk

Speaking of children, was there ever a child who didn't like toffee? If more of these old-fashioned candies were made at home there would be fewer cases of spoilt stomachs in our households and fewer young men and women who take tablets for "indigestion."

The best toffee is made in this manner: Mix four cups of brown sugar and half a cup of corn syrup with half a cup of water, and put on the fire, stirring carefully until all the sugar is dissolved. Let this come to a boil and then take off the fire and add four tablespoons of butter. Put the mixture back on the stove once more and boil until the butter has penetrated throughout the candy. Pour onto a greased enameled ware tray of any kind and, as the candy cools, mark it into squares. When it has hardened break these apart and wrap each piece separately in wax paper. Incidentally, you will find the labor of "cleaning up" is a great deal less if you have used an enameled ware saucepan for the cooking, since even the stickiest mixtures do not adhere long to its porcelain-like surface.

City Planning to Preserve Memory of Earthquake Victims

To preserve the memory of 34,000 persons who perished by burning and suffocation in the former military clothing depot in Honjo ward the afternoon of the September catastrophe, the city of Tokio plans to erect a memorial hall to cost 1,000,000 yen.

The holocaust of the Honjo military depot was the most appalling incident of Tokio's day of disaster. Thousands took refuge in the pen space of several acres, thinking to escape the flames. A sudden change of the high wind brought down on the multitude a heavy curtain of flame, smoke and gases, killing practically every one of the huddled throng.

Malaria Continues in Russia

The spread of malaria in Russia, noted seriously for the first time a year ago and seemingly an aftermath of the great famine, continues. TARIFF CHANGES AS CONCESSION TO INDUSTRIES

Ottawa.—Sales tax already paid on manufactured implements of production still in the hands of manufacturers and dealers will be refunded. Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, tabled a number of additions to his budget resolutions, chiefly benefitting manufacturers of implements and of steel. The resolutions provided for reduction of the sales tax, in line with the original reductions, on implements fabricated before the budget was announced. This is to place the Canadian seller on an equal basis with United States dealers, who pay no sales tax in their own country.

Shovel handles and stems are placed on the free list. These, it is understood, are all imported from the United States. Rolled iron and steel which goes into the manufacture of implements also is placed on the free list.

As a concession to the steel manufacturers, ingot moulds, which are now taxed five, seven and a half, and ten per cent., are reduced to British preference, free, five, and seven and a half.

The duty is reduced on racing shells used by amateur rowing clubs, imported for the exclusive use of the clubs.

Other articles exempted from sales tax are: Fire brick, ingot moulds, and articles used in the smelting of iron ore; tapioca; Lapwelded tubing not less than four inches in diameter for water, oil and natural gas well; materials for the manufacture of fertilizers; dry materials to be used for the same purpose as spraying.

The value of imported matches and imported playing cards will include excise taxes. This change will make the same system of valuation on imported as on domestic matches and playing cards.

All wholesalers and jobbers are authorized to take out licenses provided they give the necessary security for the payment of the tax and other requirements.

This change will put all wholesalers and jobbers on the same basis.

He had found it very difficult to get the actual facts with regard to the line, as both supporters and opponents of the project were very enthusiastic in presenting their cases.

Demands Practically Satisfied to April 30 Say Labor Officials

Edmonton.—Alberta is now pretty well caught up on its labor supply for spring farm work, according to officials of the provincial labor branch. To the end of April, 4,477 placements of all kinds have been made by the several labor offices of the service since the first of the year, and in April alone the number has been 2,400. For the four months there have been 2,700 more placements than in the same period last year. Farm wages run from $25 to $50 per month, and the farmers' demands have been practically satisfied to date. There is still a shortage, however, in domestic help and the new arrivals of old country immigrants are being awaited for relief in this respect.

H. B. Road Cost

$6,250,000 is the Estimated Cost of Finishing the Road

Ottawa.—The capital expenditure to March 31, 1923, on the Hudson's Bay Railway was $14,459,941, according to information given in the House of Commons.

The sum of $6,250,000 is the estimated cost of finishing the road, exclusive of terminals or harbor developments. There is no specific authority under the Dominion Lands Act for the sale of land for the purpose of Hudson's Bay Railway construction, but pre-emptions and purchased homesteads are sold under the provisions of that act. The net amount collected on pre-emption sales up to March 31, 1924, was $15,981,134, and from homesteads purchased, $3,146,421, or a total of $19,127,555.

Steal Station Safe

Fort William, Ont.—When the station agent at the Westport, Canadian National Railway depot, entered his office he found the safe missing. Robbers had entered the building early in the morning, carried the iron safe, weighing a quarter of a ton, 50 yards, and pried it open. For their trouble they obtained several checks, valued at $180, some blank money order forms and about $1 in stamps.

LIBERAL BUDGET IS CRITICIZED DURING DEBATE

Ottawa.—During a debate on the budget, Gen. J. A. Clark (Conservative, Burrard), was strong in condemnation. The budget was a gross misrepresentation of the true state of the country's finances. He challenged the government to go to the country and ask for a mandate to depart from the Laurier-Fielding tariff policy "and see what the people will say."

Mr. Clark stated that the acting minister of finance should have shown a deficit of $26,906,000 instead of a surplus of $30,000,000. The comparisons given in the budget were unfair. The result would be that Canada's national debt would be impossible to ascertain if the same methods of keeping the national accounts were pursued.

Speaking of the exodus to the United States, he said most Canadians who were leaving went from Eastern Canada, and the west was least affected.

The minister of justice had seen to it that the boot and shoe industry had not been troubled by the tariff, said the speaker. The acting minister of finance had taken care of the flour industry. Hon. G. P. Graham, as vice-president of the Canadian Foundries, had seen that certain iron products were given tariff benefits. Never had there been such a combine as shown by the ministers of this government, in protecting the industries in which they themselves were interested.

From the ranks of the Liberals, E. A. Lapierre, of Nipissing, came forward in defence of the budget. He declared that the government was living up to the Liberal platform of 1919. The budget was a step toward stability and progress, and would do a great deal to restore normal conditions in Canada. Manufacturers, he said, had made such profits during the war that some of them had blushed to take them. Some had turned back excess profits into the business and built up huge plants which normal times could not maintain. They had tried to keep up war-time prices and prosperity. When they failed, they blamed the budget.

Appreciates Work of Flour Mills

Olds, Alberta, May 22, 1924.

Mr. Weber,
Didsbury, Alta.

I have been contemplating a good while about writing a few lines to let you know how much we appreciate the good work you are doing for the farmers of this community by turning our wheat into such fine flour and wheatlets.

I have just finished baking fourteen loaves of the finest light white bread one would wish to see. I find your flour the equal of any flour I have used, and I presume I have used flour from all of the Western Mills as I have lived here the past 25 years.

I never fail to speak a word of praise of your products to my farmer friends and I believe I have been the means of sending you many customers and so far I have heard no complaints from good bread makers who have tried your flour.

I sincerely hope you will be able to keep on with the good work you have begun. I am satisfied that each year will bring you new customers from this district as well as the steady patronage of those who have once tried your products.

For light, white sweet bread I recommend all good bread bakers to give your flour a trial.

If these few words of appreciation are of any use to you, you have my permission to use them.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. J. W. Smith.

MAY GET SPECIAL COAL RATE

Negotiations are still proceeding with a view to obtaining a special rate on coal from Alberta to Ontario points which might be effective during the coming summer months.
H. Stutchbury, Trade Commissioner for Alberta, returned from Eastern Canada this week, after conducting negotiations with the Federal Government and the Canadian National Railway officials. An effort is being made to secure assistance of the Federal Government for a special rate of $6.00 ton in train lots for Alberta coal to Ontario points on an amount of about 100,000 tons. President Greenfield, who is at present in the East, has the matter in hand.
M. Stutchbury, during his visit east, also continued investigations in connection with the experiment to make various grades of paper out of wheat straw from Alberta. Great success has already attended these experiments.

A Daughter Of The Ranch

A Story of Romance and Adventure of Western Pioneer Days

— BY —
ALEXANDER D. McLEOD (Published by Special Arrangement with the Author)

Her rippling laugh at his retort indicated that she appreciated the humor of his allusion. "No," she said, "while we are really horse thieves, and have been discovered by the police with stolen horses in our possession, we trust to the paroled honor of our prisoner, and the sureness of our aim, to hold our captive in subjection."

In this way they travelled three deep during several miles of their journey. They kept up a spirited conversation that covered in its range many topics of interest. College educated himself, Ronald found that his companions' range of reading had covered the works of all well-known authors, which they were both able to discuss with an understanding and intellectual grasp that surprised him. Expressing surprise at their unusual accomplishments in that respect, he asked them how it was. In reply Mr. Fraser told him that, feeling the disadvantages under which they were placed, by being so far removed from schools and other advantages for their daughter, they occupied the long hours of the winter nights in reading in turns to each other, and in discussing the works they read. He said they found this mode of pastime very interesting, and thus the loneliness of their home life in the lack of neighbors and social advantages were largely overcome.

This interesting information heightened his admiration for his companions. Being of a studious and literary turn of mind himself, their conversation proved to be of intense interest to him, as his also seemed to be entertaining to them. In this way the otherwise tedious hours of the long trip passed most pleasantly.

Gradually, as they advanced, the deep blue haze of the Moose Mountains loomed in the distance, and blending more and more with the green of the vegetation, indicated the progress they were making. Though the sun was hot, a light, western breeze sweeping over the prairies added not a little to the comforts of the trip. By Ronald the weariness of his two days' exertions was forgotten in the pleasure he experienced in the society of the young woman riding by

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont. — "I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out, all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it." — Mrs. HARVEY MILLIGAN, Sydenham, Ont.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

his side. Her sprightly bearing under the strain through which she had passed, and through which she was still passing, indicated a vitality that seemed to surpass human endurance. Showing no sign of weariness, she kept up her part of the conversation with a vivacity and cheerfulness that was most surprising to him.

Toward the late hours of the afternoon they reached the foothills of the mountains. Here, in order to relieve her mother's distress, she decided to gallop ahead, and be the first bearer of the good news. Accordingly setting spurs to her horse, she was soon out of sight over the brow of the first ridge of hills. Within an hour of her departure, they reached the house and soon had their horses corralled. They were assisted in this task by a couple of young men from the settlement, who, on learning of the kidnapping, had come to the ranch to offer their assistance.

Through feelings of delicacy, Ronald remained behind chatting with the men, while Mr. Fraser went into the house to rejoin the family. Both men, Ronald learned, were on transport service during the rebellion. What interested them chiefly was, however, the particulars regarding the abduction. They evidently had learned something of the events from Miss Fraser herself before Ronald arrived, but wishing to hear more of the details, they endeavored to make him their informant. He accordingly related the facts to them.

Mr. Fraser, in due time appeared at the door and invited them into the house. As Ronald entered the large room, Mrs. Fraser, still showing the signs of distress and anguish she had suffered during their absence, arose to greet him. Taking his extended hand into both her own she held it clasped, while for a few moments, unable to find words to express herself, she scanned his face with eyes dimmed with tears of joy and happiness. Composing herself, at last she said: "Oh, Mr. MacRae, it was God's Providence that sent you our way when he did to save our child! I cannot find words to express our deep gratitude to you for what you have done for us. But, I am sure, God will reward you."

"Mrs. Fraser, it is sufficient reward for me to have earned your gratitude. I was fortunate to have been in a position to give what help I could at a time when I was needed. We were fortunate in being able to save your daughter in time before harm had overtaken her, and to have her brought home safe to you again. In that itself I feel that I am well rewarded. What I have done, with the assistance of Mr. Fraser, was only doing a duty that any other man would have done in the same position. At the same time, Mrs. Fraser, I thank you for your most kind words."

"Mary has told me what she has gone through, and she feels more than grateful to you for what you have done. It was a sore trial for us while it lasted, but God has been good to us in restoring our daughter to us without harm. While we feel that we shall never be able to repay you for what you have done for us, our gratitude and blessings shall follow you in the years to come wherever you may be."

Deeply interested, the only words Ronald could find to express himself were: "It is kind of you to say that, Mrs. Fraser, and I shall ever bear that fact in mind."

As the two strangers intimated their intention to starting on their return home, Mrs. Fraser persuaded upon them to remain for dinner. She then proceeded to set the table and make preparations for the evening meal. The men, in the meantime, sat around and engaged in conversation till the dinner was prepared. They had not long to wait, for the table set to accommodate six, was soon ready and laden with everything to tempt the appetite. After inviting them to sit in, she went to the stairway and called her daughter, who was dressing for the dinner.

The few moments that preceded the daughter's appearance were exciting minutes for Ronald, who had not yet seen her decked out in female garb. He awaited her appearance with a rapidly pulsating heart. As she entered the room, he immediately arose from his chair at the table and, stepping back, he drew out the chair reserved for her on his left. As she sat down she acknowledged his courtesy with a nod and, smiling, thanked him. Too mentally confused to take note of her appearance, he sat down beside her and carried out his part with sufficient composure to conceal his mental agitation. Trained in the art of table manners, and conscious of common usages, he did his part with a natural ease of manner that attracted no attention from those around him. She, "to the manner born," responded with equal grace.

Mrs. Fraser, presiding at the head of the table and generous to a fault, passed the good things with which her table was supplied, and urged her guests to partake generously. This the appetizing food tempted them to do without urging. The two strangers had a long ride of twenty-five miles ahead of them before reaching their homes for the night, there was, accordingly, no pressing on them to prolong their stay. Before leaving, however, they intimated to Mrs. Fraser that, judging from the interest the people of their settlement were taking in the disappearance of her daughter, she need not be surprised if she should have several guests for the following evening. She told them that she would be pleased to see as many of them as felt like coming. "We have lots of room," she said, "we shall be pleased to entertain them the best we can."

After a refreshing bath in the cool waters of the lake, Ronald was strolling along the beach in the direction of the house when Mr. Fraser called him to come and join the family circle on the veranda. Here he had the first opportunity of getting a good look at the young lady as she graced the family life—the young lady around whom his chief interest at the present time centred. As she sat in front of him, now daintily attired in a muslin frock, her nimble fingers deftly working on an intricate piece of embroidery, and at the same time keeping up an animated conversation, this young soldier, so long removed from the social advantages to which he had been accustomed, became deeper and deeper enmeshed in her attractive charms.

Her thick mass of wavy brown hair was neatly arranged with slight waves covering the upper corners of her forehead; thence it was drawn with a wavy sweep along the sides of her head, covering the ears, and gathered in a neat broad roll at the back of her head and neck. Her full blue-gray eyes, encircled by long curved dark lashes, were overhung by dark slightly arching brows and a full intellectual forehead. Her regular features showed strength and refinement, lending a cast to her countenance that would attract attention among many—a face that would be noticed for distinction rather than for beauty. Her skin, while showing evidences of weather tan, still retained its natural unruined smoothness of surface. In appearance she was the picture of health and perfect physical development. She had that strength of carriage and poise that is characteristic of an athletic and active life in the open.

Ronald took in these details of her personal appearance while engaged in conversation on general topics and matters of local and home interest. This was kept till the dusk of the evening, when Mrs. Fraser suggested retiring and taking a long rest in the morning. This suggestion was readily agreed to by all three weary travellers. They were all commencing to show signs of weariness, especially Mr. Fraser, who, as he sat in his chair, was yielding to nature's demand for sleep.

"Mr. MacRae," said Mrs. Fraser, "your room is the one on the north-west corner at the head of the stairs. I shall leave a light in it for you when you feel like retiring. I hope that you will enjoy a good rest, for I am sure you will need it after all that you have gone through the past two days. Goodnight all."

"Goodnight, mother dear," added Mary, as she hugged and kissed her mother affectionately on retiring.

Ronald was shown to his room a short time after this by Mr. Fraser. It was one of four bedrooms into which the upper floor of the house was divided. While the room, whose rustic walls were whitewashed, was chiefly furnished with rustic hand-made furnishings, evidently the handy work of Mr. Fraser himself, it was neat, tidy and clean, and as suggestive of homeliness as the lower apartments of the house. What particularly took his fancy was the white immaculately clean linen sheets between which he was to sleep—a luxury he had not enjoyed since he had enlisted with the Queen's Own Rifles at Toronto four years before, and with which regiment he had served until selected, on account of his skill in horsemanship, to act as scout in advance of the troops. It was a pleasing denouement to an unexpected and exciting two days' adventure. His last thoughts as he yielded to the fatigue that was by now commencing to overpower his vital energies, were of the young woman—thoughts which within the past two days, had become an obsession with him.

Making Theatrical History

Edmonton and Calgary Register Strong Interest in "Lightnin'" Coming

With mail orders pouring in and other early indications of heavy attendance, the engagements of "Lightnin'" in Edmonton the week of May 12 and in Calgary the week of May 19, are expected to contribute interesting chapters to theatrical history in the Canadian northwest.

When John Golden first planned to send Thomas Jefferson, Bessie Bacon, Charles E. Evans and a real all-star cast on a tour of the principal Canadian cities, several of his colleagues predicted dire results. The expense of sending such an organization for long jumps through a rather sparsely settled section of the country was regarded by older producers as precluding any chance for profit. But the tour has been a brilliant success, financially as well as artistically. An enormous gross was registered during the company's two weeks' engagement in Winnipeg and packed theatres have been the rule in the cities since visited.

During the Edmonton and Calgary engagements the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be played. The Empire Theatre in Edmonton is now conducting its regular box office sale for the week of the 12th and the Grand Theatre, Calgary, is filling mail order for the week of the 19th.

What do other eyes see?

Ask and answer this question honestly

Your mirror can tell you what other eyes see—if you will consult it honestly, and honestly accept its judgment.

But you need not fear its verdict. Because unlovely skin need not remain unlovely. The alluring youthful complexion Nature gave you may be yours today. Millions of women now follow this simple rule to keep the radiance and beauty of schoolgirl complexion. You can, too.

Just this Cleanse the skin regularly, authorities say, to keep your complexion lovely, radiant, youthful.

But beware of harsh cleansing methods. They injure skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—each night before retiring. Rub the creamy, foamy lather well into the tiny pores. Rinse—and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry—apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not injured by cosmetics, by wind and sun, or by dirt.

The simple, and correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Be sure you get Palmolive—which is never sold unwrapped. All dealers have it. After even a short period of this treatment you will see a marked improvement in your skin.

Many now use Palmolive for the bath—letting it do for the whole body what it does for the face.

THE DELICATE GIRL

What Mothers Should Do as Their Daughters Approach Womanhood

If growing girls are to become well-developed, healthy women, their health must be carefully guarded. Mothers should not ignore their unsettled moods or the various troubles that tell of approaching womanhood. It is an important time of life. Where pallor, headache, backache or other signs of anaemia are evident you must provide the sufferer with the surest means of making new blood.

Remember, pale bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep, and regular open-air exercise. But to save the bloodless sufferer she must have new blood—and nothing meets the case so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills increase the supply of new, red blood; they stimulate the appetite and relieve the weary back and limbs; thus they restore health and charm, and bring to anaemic girls the rosy cheeks and bright eyes of strong, happy girlhood.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Oil for All Men.—The sailor, the soldier, the fisherman, the lumberman, the out-door laborer and all who are exposed to injury and the elements will find in Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil a true and faithful friend. To ease pain, relieve colds, dress wounds, subdue lunago and overcome rheumatism. It is excellent. Therefore, it should have a place in all home medicines and be amongst those taken on a journey.

A Beautiful Complexion & Admiration

Ladies—A few days' treatment with CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

They end the misery of Constipation. Small Pill—Small Dose—Small Price

Drones and Decadence

The Future Success of Humanity Lies With the Workers

Only by overcoming obstacles does one acquire vigor, adeptness and self-reliance. A youth misspent is a life mispent. Luxury is the shoal on which the Persian and Roman civilizations foundered; and it was because generations were born that knew not the urge of necessity. We must remember that one who dies on a mattress of silken floss is as dead as one who perishes on straw. The future is to the workers. When great fortunes begin to breed idlers they become a menace alike to the individual and the nation.—Los Angeles Times.

Mothers can easily know when their children are troubled with worms, and they lose no time in applying a reliable remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. One dose of them, and they will be found palatable by all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

Clayey soil is unfavorable to vegetation because the soil is too close and adhesive to allow the free passage of air or water to the roots of the plants; it also obstructs the expansion of the fibres of the roots.

An Oil that is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over fifty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a whole continent for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout this continent. There is nothing equal to it.

A GOOD PICTURE

In a little log cabin, on the side of a mountain in California, sat a girl. Her eyes were staring out of the window toward the south, from whence, she thought, her lover was speeding to escape a band of pursuers. At that moment, however, he was standing beneath a huge tree, surrounded by a hundred men. A noose was thrown over a limb and the noose placed about his neck. But—

This is one of the tragic moments which crowd "The Girl of the Golden West," a First National picture showing at the Opera House next week.
